CTIA today announced its 38-member board at its final standalone MobileCon conference in San Jose. CTIA is in the process of transitioning from 2 shows a year to just one Super Mobility week. The first edition of that event will be held in Sept. of 2014 in Las Vegas.

“Among the 2014 Board of Directors’ goals is to make certain the U.S. wireless industry remains the world’s leader in innovation so that Americans continue to benefit from wireless telecommunications,” said Steve Largent, president and CEO of CTIA in a statement. “One of the key components to this is making sure more spectrum is made available for commercial wireless use. By working together and with the expert guidance of our board, CTIA will work diligently to ensure appropriate public policy that recognizes the need for the U.S. wireless industry to remain the best in the world.”

Led by Verizon Wireless President and CEO Dan Mead, who has been elected as the 2013-2014 chairman of CTIA's Board of Directors, this year's crop of 38 members includes seven new members.
