

Verizon Offers Up $20 Monthly Discount for Customers Bundling Wireless, FIOS

Ben Munson

Verizon is offering a total of \$20 monthly discounts [1] to customers who sign up for at least one smartphone service plan and the FIOS Quantum Triple Play option.

The limited time deal, running March 7 through April 19, grants $10 per month off each bill and promises two-year contract savings of up to $480.

The deal extends to the $90 per month FIOS plan offering 50-25 Mbps broadband, TV and phone.

Although it's a limited time deal, Verizon's newest offer echoes other recent tweaks to plans and pricing the carrier has made.

In February, Verizon announced More Everything plans [2] increasing the amount of data available for existing wireless plan price tiers. Earlier this week, Verizon introduced new AllSet prepaid plans [3] that start at $35 and include data packages that rollover into the next billing period.

AT&T's new Mobile Share plans and Sprint's Family plans have also come along in 2014 as it appears national carriers are having to respond to T-Mobile's disruptive moves that have helped earn the fourth-place carrier a million-plus new customers in each of the last three quarters.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/31/2015 - 2:13am):

<http://www.wirelessweek.com/news/2014/03/verizon-offers-20-monthly-discount-customers-bundling-wireless-fios>

Links:

[1] <http://www.prnewswire.com/news-releases/double-up-on-savings-on-verizons-industry-leading-4g-lte-wireless-and-fios-networks-248989041.html>

[2] <http://www.wirelessweek.com/news/2014/02/verizon-intros-more-everything-plans-higher-data-caps>

[3] <http://www.wirelessweek.com/news/2014/03/verizon-allset-new-3g-prepaid-plans>